

CONTRIBUTORS

Boo Mei Chin is a senior lecturer in the Economics and Corporate Administration Division, Universiti Kolej Tunku Abdul Rahman, Pulau Pinang, Malaysia. She holds a PhD and Master of Economic Management from Universiti Sains Malaysia, (USM), Pulau Pinang, Malaysia. Her research interests include economics of happiness and development economics.

Charity Lee is currently a senior lecturer in the Faculty of Languages & Linguistics, University of Malaya (UM), Kuala Lumpur, Malaysia. Her main areas of research include narrative analysis and discourse analysis, particularly involving social practices surrounding migrant and vulnerable groups. Her research includes communication practices in media, politics and healthcare. Some ongoing research projects include arts-based narrative research among refugees, doctor-patient communication in primary healthcare consultations and communication practices of journalists relating to the Sustainable Development Goals (Erasmus+ CBHE Grant). She holds a PhD from UM and a Master of Arts (MA) from University of Manchester, United Kingdom.

Chong Sheau Tsuey (PhD) is a senior lecturer in the Center for Research in Psychology and Human Well-being, Faculty of Social Sciences and Human Well-being, Universiti Kebangsaan Malaysia (UKM), Selangor, Malaysia. She is a registered and licensed counsellor and providing counselling services at the Specialist Unit for Psychological Well-being and Counselling, UNHCR-Kuala Lumpur and the Young Buddhist Association of Malaysia. She is also a research fellow at the Centre for Youth Empowerment at UKM. She is active in youth, social capital, career counselling and metaphoric cards.

Elmira Akhmetova is an associate professor in the Department of History and Civilization, Kuliyyah of Islamic Revealed Knowledge, International Islamic University Malaysia (IIUM), Kuala Lumpur, Malaysia. She holds a PhD (History and Civilization) from IIUM. Her research interests include civilisational studies, Islamic history and minority issues.

Ku Boon Dar earned his Bachelor of Arts in History from USM. He holds a MA in Southeast Asian Studies and PhD (Chinese History) from UM. He is lecturer in the History Section, School of Distance Education, USM. His research interests include the history of China and Southeast Asia, particularly Vietnam as well as the study of the Malay World.

Juliana Rosmidah Jaafar is a lecturer in the Centre for Foundation and General Studies, Infrastructure University Kuala Lumpur, Selangor, Malaysia. She holds a PhD (Psychology) from UKM. Her research interests includes volunteerism, motivation and youth. Currently, she involved in a collaboration project among private universities focusing on digital-volunteerism among youth in Klang Valley.

Khadijah Alavi is an associate professor in the social work programme, School of Psychology and Human Well-being, UKM. She holds a PhD (Community Development) from Universiti Putra Malaysia (UPM), Selangor, Malaysia and a MA from UM. Her research interests include community development, aging, care management, child abuse and family at risk. She is also interested in technical and vocational education and training. Currently, she involved in the making of long term care for elderly 2030 for Malaysia.

Lim Hock Eam is an associate professor in the Economics Department, College of Business, Universiti Utara Malaysia, Kedah, Malaysia. He holds a PhD from Monash University in Australia and Masters in Economics from University College London, United Kingdom. He is involved actively in various research projects and publishes extensively in various local and international journals. His areas of research interest includes economics of happiness, graduate employability, labour economics and applied micro-econometrics.

Nasir Yusoff (or Mohd Nasir Che Mohd Yusoff) is a senior lecturer from the Department of Neurosciences, School of Medical Sciences, USM, Kelantan, Malaysia. He obtained a PhD (Psychology and Behaviour) from UM and a Master in Medical Science, USM. He also had gone post-doctoral training in social-neuroscience at the University of Chicago, USA. Currently, he is involved with research in areas such as personality and emotion processing as well as neuro-culture interaction.

Norlyiana Samsuri is a doctoral student in the Department of Neurosciences, School of Medical Sciences, USM, Kelantan, Malaysia. She holds a Bachelor Degree in Cognitive Science, Universiti Malaysia Sarawak, Malaysia and a Master Science (MSc) in Neuroscience, USM. Currently, she is completing her doctoral thesis related to neuro-culture interaction among Malaysia's multi-ethnic population and immigrants.

Ooi Keat Gin, PhD, FRHistS, PJK is currently honorary professor at the School of Humanities, Universiti Sains Malaysia. Elected as a Fellow of the Royal Historical Society (London), he was formerly founder-editor-in-chief of International Journal of Asia-Pacific Studies (www.usm.my/ijaps/), and presently associate editor of Suvannabhumi: Multi-disciplinary Journal of Southeast Asian Studies.

Salilah Saidun received a Bachelor's degree in Medicine, Surgery and Obstetrics from the Royal College of Surgeons in Ireland and later a Master's degree in Healthcare Ethics from UM. She finds the juxtaposition of culture and religion within the modern healthcare system intriguing and this fuelled her involvement in the humanities with the aspiration to discover potential means of harmonising culture, religion and the healthcare system. She is currently an external researcher at the Sultan Qaboos University Oman and a PhD candidate at IIUM.

Shangeetha Rajah Kumaran is a senior lecturer in the English Language Department, Faculty of Languages and Linguistics, UM. She holds a PhD from UKM and a MA from UPM. Her main areas of research interests are the diasporic writings in literary texts of the Malaysian Indian community and the sociolinguistics aspects of Malaysian literary texts.

Siti Noor Hafizah Mohamed Sharif is an independent researcher. She holds a PhD and MA from USM. Her research interests include socioeconomic history of Malaysia, internal migration and Malay society.

Yen Siew Hwa was an associate professor in the Economics Section, School of Distance Education, USM. She holds a PhD from USM and a MSc (Econ) from Iowa State University, USA. Her research areas are in behavioural economics, applied economics and socio-economic studies. She is also interested in studies on happiness. (Note: Yen Siew Hwa retired from service in August 2020).