

CONTRIBUTORS

Ann Sien Sut Lee is a specialist tutor for children with special needs. She holds a Master of Arts in special education from Universiti Sains Malaysia (USM). She is currently a PhD student in the School of Educational Studies, USM. Her main research interests include dyslexia studies and handwriting difficulties. She is also interested in other studies on special education, remedial education and inclusive education.

Chang Yi Chang is a lecturer in the Department of Journalism, Faculty of Arts and Social Science, Universiti Tunku Abdul Rahman. He is currently a PhD candidate researching on the issue of museum display dan Malay history at the Centre for Policy Research and International Studies, USM. He holds a Master of Arts (Communication) from USM. His research interests include ethnicity and identity, museum display, Malay historiography, postcolonial discourse in maritime Southeast Asia, media and Malay politics in Peninsular Malaysia.

Choo Chean Hau is a lecturer in the Department of Language and MPU, INTI International College Penang. He holds a Degree of Master of Social Science with Honours (Anthropology/Sociology) in the field of Political Sociology from USM. His main research interests are electoral studies and electoral politics, particularly on the issues of electoral system, party system and election results. He is also interested in the constitution and constitutional politics, comparative politics and institutional reforms of Dewan Negara (Senate) of Malaysia.

Elia Syarafina Abdul Shakur is an assistant professor in the Department of Building and Property Management, Universiti Tunku Abdul Rahman (UTAR). She was formerly a postdoctoral researcher at the Institute of Tropical Biodiversity and Sustainable Development, Universiti Malaysia Terengganu (UMT). She holds a PhD (Environment and Development) from Universiti Kebangsaan Malaysia (UKM), Master of Science (Real Estate) and Bachelor honours degree (Property Management) from Universiti Teknologi Malaysia (UTM). Her research interests include property management, urbanisation and sustainability.

Ezarina Zakaria is a lecturer from UKM. She holds a PhD from USM. Her research interests include social work practice in HIV/AIDS prevention, drug addiction, marginalised groups and HIV/AIDS social impact studies.

Fauziah Ibrahim is a lecturer from UKM. She holds a PhD from Universiti Putra Malaysia (UPM). Her research interests include drug relapse, community development and crime prevention.

Lay Wah Lee is a professor in special education in the School of Educational Studies, USM. She holds a PhD from UKM and a Master of Education from USM. Her main research interests include dyslexia studies, visual impairment studies and technology in special education. She is also interested in other studies on special education, remedial education and inclusive education.

Mansor Abu Talib is a professor in the Department of Human Development and Family Studies, Faculty of Human Ecology, UPM. He holds a PhD from the University of Manchester and a Master of Science from California State University, Sacramento. His research interests include qualitative and phenomenology studies and human development.

Mohamad Faizuan Mat is a lecturer in the Fine Arts Programme, Universiti Malaysia Sarawak (UNIMAS) and PhD student in the School of Arts, USM. He holds a Master of Science in Integrated Design Studies from the Faculty of Design and Architecture, UPM. His area of expertise includes fine arts, visual arts, curatorial, contemporary arts and co-creation. In 2015–2017, he was chosen to represent Malaysia for CuratorsLAB Program under Goethe-Institut Indonesien, Institut Teknologi Bandung, PORTIKUS and Städelschule Frankfurt am Main, Germany to support contemporary curatorial practice in the Southeast Asia.

Mohamad Naquiddin Dahamat Azam is a senior lecturer in the Department of Human Development and Family Studies, Faculty of Human Ecology, UPM. He holds a PhD from the Leiden University and a Master of Science from UPM. His research interests include cross-cultural psychology, psychology of child development and human development.

Mohd Roslan Rosnon is a senior lecturer in the Department of Social and Development Sciences, Faculty of Human Ecology, UPM. He holds a PhD from the University of South Australia. He is a social anthropology researcher. Currently, his research work focuses on indigenous education policy and minority rights especially within the UN system among the Orang Asli in Malaysia and Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander People in Australia. In the past, he has conducted numerous studies related to Orang Asli such as issues in community development, consumerism, social well-being, indigenous tourism, cultural and language studies.

Mohd Suhaimi Mohamad is a lecturer from UKM. He holds a PhD from the University of Bristol. His research interests include clinical social work, mental health and community development.

Muhammad Danial Azman is a senior lecturer in the Department of East Asian Studies, Faculty of Arts and Social Sciences, University of Malaya (UM). He holds a PhD from the University of St. Andrews. His research interests include Africa-East Asia relations, peace and conflict studies, and international relations. He is also interested in the comparative politics of Malaysia with East Asian and African countries, particularly on the issues of global South and the placements of developing countries in knowledge production of world politics.

Ngeow Chow Bing is Director of the Institute of China Studies at the UM. He holds a PhD in Public and International Affairs from Northeastern University. His main research interests are China's politics and China-Southeast Asia relations.

Ngu Ik Tien is a senior lecturer in the Department of Chinese Studies, Faculty of Arts and Social Sciences, UM. She holds a PhD in Political Science from USM. Her research interests include Malaysian politics, local politics in Sarawak and Southeast Asian Chinese society.

Noorhaslinda Kulub Abd. Rashid is a senior lecturer in the Faculty of Business, Economics and Social Development, UMT. Her expertise is in Development Economics and Islamic Economics with a specialisation in Muslim Household Income and Expenditure. She is also involved in fields related to the sustainability and resilience of households as well as the study of the quality of life of the population. Experienced for more than 15 years as an academician after completing her studies in the Universiti Utara Malaysia (UUM) followed by a Master of Economics from UM, PhD from UKM and finally in the University of Queensland as a postdoctoral researcher in economics.

Norizan Kadir is a senior lecturer in the History Section, School of Distance Education, USM. She holds a PhD from UM. Her research interests include diplomatic history (Malaysia-Philippines relations), Islamic intellectual history in Southeast Asia and Malaysian history.

Nor Hayati Sa'at is a senior lecturer in the Faculty of Business, Economics and Social Development and a research fellow in the Institute of Tropical Biodiversity and Sustainable Development, UMT. Her research area focuses on the development of coastal and riverfront communities. She has written several articles on social mobility and the implications of social change on coastal communities in Malaysia.

N.K. Tharshini is a lecturer from UNIMAS. She holds a PhD from UKM. Her research interest includes deviance and social control, at-risk behaviour, violence and injury prevention.

Pramela Krish is an associate professor in the Centre for Research in Language and Linguistics, Faculty of Social Sciences and Humanities, UKM. She holds a PhD from UPM and Master of Education from UM. Her research interests include technology-based language learning and the impact of new media in society. She has been involved in community participatory programmes with disenfranchised youths and women of the Malaysian Indian community.

Ramalingam Rajamanickam is an associate professor in the Faculty of Law, UKM. He holds a PhD in Law and Master of Law from UKM. His research interests include the criminal justice system, forensic law, evidence law and Malay language. He has been involved in many community projects and programmes relating to many segments of society, including the youths.