

CONTRIBUTORS

Ahmad Dzulfahmi Muhamad is a senior lecturer in the History Section, School of Distance Education, Universiti Sains Malaysia (USM). He holds a PhD from Universiti Teknologi Malaysia (UTM) and a Master of Arts (MA) from Universiti Malaya (UM). His research interests include history of political thought and movements in West Asia. He is also interested in Islamic development history in Malaysia.

Ahmad Fuad Rahmat is an assistant professor in Media and Digital Cultures at the School of Media, Languages and Cultures at the University of Nottingham Malaysia.

Ahmad Kamal Ariffin Mohd Rus is a senior lecturer in the Department of History, Faculty of Arts and Social Sciences, UM. He holds a PhD in Malaysian History. His area of expertise is in aspects of social, municipal and administrative history.

Amelia Alfred Tom is a senior lecturer at the Universiti Teknologi MARA (UiTM), Sarawak, Malaysia, attached to the Academy of Language Studies. Her research interest is in language and linguistics, specifically cultural-linguistic and academic issues.

Awang Rozaimie is a senior lecturer at the UiTM, Sarawak, Malaysia, attached to the Department of International Business, Faculty of Business and Management. He obtained his PhD in management from USM. His research interests are in expatriation, cross-cultural and cultural psychology (personality, competency, and indigenous knowledge), people, and entrepreneurial issues.

Eugene Mark is a PhD candidate with the S. Rajaratnam School of International Studies (RSIS), Nanyang Technological University (NTU), Singapore. He specialises in environmental and social issues in the palm oil sectors of Malaysia and Indonesia.

Faezah Muhayat works as a language planning officer at the Institute of Language and Literature, Kuala Lumpur. She obtained a bachelor's degree in the field of Malay Culture from the Universiti Kebangsaan Malaysia (UKM) and continued her Master's and Doctorate of Philosophy studies at Universiti Putra Malaysia (UPM). She writes critical essays, children's stories and poetries. Among her books is the Pertandingan Berbalas Pantun: Panduan Penganjuran dan Pengalaman Juri (2018), part of which is contained in the book Pemikiran Sasterawan Anwar Ridhwan (2019), Kumpulan Pantun Nasihat Seribu Guru Asean (2020) and Refleksi Sastera Kanak-kanak di Malaysia (2021).

Fazilah Husin is a senior lecturer at the Malay Language Department, Faculty of Modern Languages and Communication, UPM. She obtained her PhD in Drama and Theatre from USM. Her thesis was published by Dewan Bahasa dan Pustaka in 2010 under the title Teater Melayu: Teks dan Eksperimentasi. Among the courses that she handles are Basics of Theatre, Malay Drama, and Studies of Drama Television and Malay Film. Her research interests comprise Malay drama and theatre, theatre audiences, and Islamic cultural arts.

Gregory Kiyai @ Keai is a lecturer in City Graduate School, City University Malaysia, Petaling Jaya. He holds a PhD from Universiti Malaysia Sarawak (UNIMAS) and Master of Arts (MA) from Universiti Malaysia Sabah (UMS). His research interests include socioculture, history, museum studies, material culture and indigenous studies.

Johan Saravanamuttu is Professor Emeritus of USM and Adjunct Senior Fellow at RSIS, NTU, Singapore. He held previous positions as professor of political science at USM and Visiting Senior Research Fellow at the Institute of Southeast Asian Studies. He is the author of Malaysia's Foreign Policy, the First 50 Years: Alignment, Neutralism, Islamism (ISEAS, 2010) and Power Sharing in a Divided Nation: Mediated Communalism and New Politics over Six Decades of Elections in Malaysia (ISEAS, 2016).

Kartini Aboo Talib @ Khalid is a Public Policy and Ethnicity Professor. She obtained her PhD in Law, Policy and Society at Northeastern University, Boston, Massachusetts, U.S.A. She is the Deputy Director of the Institute of Ethnic Studies (KITA), UKM. Her research revolves around gender, civil society, politics and democracy related to public policy.

Lai Yew Meng is associate professor of Politics and International Relations and Dean of the Centre for the Promotion of Knowledge and Language Learning (CPKLL) at UMS. He holds a Master of Arts in International Political Economy (IPE) and a PhD in Politics from the University of Warwick. His research interests include Japanese/Chinese foreign policy, Sino-Japanese relations, East Asian security, Malaysian politics and foreign policy and Indonesia-Malaysia relations. Lai is currently a member of the Consultative Council on Foreign Policy, Ministry of Foreign Affairs, Malaysia.

Lam Choong Wah is an analyst at Huayan Policy Institute, Kuala Lumpur, Malaysia. He holds a PhD from Xiamen University and a Master of Arts from UM. His research interests include parliamentary behaviour, strategic, international, security and public policy studies. He is also interested in the politics of the Territorial Disputes in the South China Sea and Malaysia-China relations.

Lee Yok Fee is a lecturer in the Department of Government and Civilization Studies, Faculty of Human Ecology, UPM. His current research interests are ethnicity, social cohesion and national identity. He has published academic books, book chapters and journal articles on ethnic relations, nation building and identity studies, especially on the Chinese in Malaysia.

Low Kok On is a lecturer in the Academy of Art and Creative Technology, UMS. His research interests include the folk beliefs, cultures and folk literature of the indigenous peoples of Sabah. He has published many academic books and journal papers concerning the field of beliefs, cultures and folk literature of the Kadazan, Dusun, Rungus, Kimaragang and Murut.

Lye Tuck Po is a senior lecturer in the Anthropology and Sociology Section, School of Social Sciences, USM. She holds a PhD and MA from the University of Hawaii`i at Manoa. Her research interests include environmental anthropology, indigenous knowledge, hunter-gatherers, conservation and people, tropical forests, and perception and sensory knowledge of the environment.

Maiyamin Md Nor is an English teacher in Maplewood Academy, Selangor, Malaysia. She graduated from UM where she received both her Bachelor of Education (TESL) and Master of English Language Studies. After receiving her Bachelor in 2015, she has been teaching in various education institutions and working with students of various ages, focusing mainly on the development of English. Apart from teaching full time, she also spares time exploring the intricacies of English linguistics, particularly in regards to code-switching and language contact in various contexts.

Maureen De Silva is a senior lecturer in the History Programme, Faculty of Social Sciences and Humanities, UMS. She holds a PhD from the School of Oriental and African Studies (SOAS), University of London, and a Master of Arts from UKM. Her research interests include colonial labour, migration and diaspora studies. She is also interested in women history, particularly on the issues of women oppression, inequalities, and emancipation.

Mohammad Abu Taher is an assistant professor at the Department of Law, American International University-Bangladesh (AIUB). Prior to joining AIUB, Mr. Taher was an assistant professor of the Department of Law and Justice, Southeast University, Dhaka. He holds a PhD from the Faculty of Law, UM, Malaysia in Criminal Law. His research interests include child law, elderly law, human rights and law enforcement.

Mohd. Zariat Abdul Rani is an associate professor in the Department of Malay Language, Faculty of Modern Languages and Communication, UPM. He holds a PhD in Malay Literature. His area of specialisation is literary theory and criticism.

Nasha Rodziadi Khaw is a lecturer at the Centre for Global Archaeological Research, USM. He obtained his PhD in Archaeology from the University of Peshawar and a Master of Arts in the same field from USM. His expertise lies in the field of ethnohistory and epigraphy-palaeography. His research also focusses on the archaeological study of Kedah Tua, early history of Malay kingdoms and study on the inscriptions from the Malay world.

Nawaljeet Singh Rayar is an associate research fellow with the Malaysia Programme in RSIS, NTU, Singapore. He is a foreign policy analyst with research interests in Malaysia's domestic political landscape. He has published various commentaries covering Malaysia's relations with regional and international partners including its relations with Singapore. He has also written about the evolving dynamics between key political parties in Malaysia. Nawaljeet received his BSc. in Mechanical Engineering from National University of Singapore and MSc. in International Relations from RSIS.

Nik Rafidah Nik Muhamad Affendi is the Head of the Malay Language Department and a senior lecturer in the Language Department, Faculty of Modern Languages and Communication, UPM. Her area of expertise is the criticism of Malay literature and children's and teenagers' literature. She obtained her Bachelor's, Master's, and Doctorate of Philosophy from UPM. She actively produces journal articles, children's story books, and essays related to children's and youth literature as well as Malay literature criticism. Among the stories she produced are Ikan Belacak and Tupai, Saudagar Kinta, Demak yang Bertuah, Kisah Sukun, and others.

Noor Ain Mat Noor is a senior lecturer at the Center for Intern Training and Academic Enrichment, UM. She holds a PhD in Malaysian History. Her area of expertise is in aspects of social history and administration.

Noria Tugang is a Professor in the Faculty Applied and Creatives Arts, UNIMAS. She holds a PhD and and Master of Arts from UM. Her research interest includes socio culture, arts management, museum studies, material culture, and indigenous studies.

Nudra Shafini Halis Azhan is a postgraduate student in Malay Literature at the Faculty of Modern Languages and Communication, UPM. She holds a Master of Arts in Malay Literature. Her research interests include literary theory and comparative literature.

Nur Atiqah Tang Abdullah is a Senior Research Fellow at the Institute of Ethnic Studies KITA, UKM. She obtained her PhD in Sociology of Politics and Education at UM. Her research interests are sociology and citizenship education.

Nur Najwa Yusof is a PhD student at the History Department of the UM. She obtained her first degree and master's degree from the UM. She is interested in writing. Among the fields that she ventures into is the writing of Malaysian History articles related to municipality and socioeconomic developments.

R. K. Shangeetha is a senior lecturer at the English Language Department, Faculty of Languages and Linguistics, UM. Her main area of research interests are the sociolinguistics aspects of the Malaysian literary scene and the diasporic writings in literary texts of the Malaysian community.

Salmah Jan Noor Muhammad is an associate professor in the Department of Malay Language, Faculty of Modern Languages and Communication, UPM. She holds a PhD from UPM. Her research interests include traditional Malay literature, Malay manuscripts and philology.

Siti Zaharah Jamaluddin holds a PhD from the UM. Her research interests include family law, criminal law, labour law and research methodology. Since 2014, she has been focusing on elderly issues and the law in Malaysia.

Suresh Narayanan is a lecturer in the Centre for Global Archaeological Research, USM. He obtained his PhD and MA in Archaeology from USM. His expertise lies in the field of ethnoarchaeology with special focus on the cultural study of prehistoric and traditional pottery in Malaysia and Southeast Asia. Besides that, his research also focuses on the Neolithic Period and Metal Age in Malaysia, Southeast Asia and South China.

Susana William Jalil is a senior lecturer at UiTM Sarawak, attached to the Department of Office System Management, Faculty of Business and Management. Her research interests are in work-place behaviour, indigenous culture, and entrepreneurial issues.

Syed Imad Alatas is currently pursuing his PhD in Sociology at the University of North Carolina-Chapel Hill. His research interests include the sociology of religion and gender. He has written on anti-Semitism in Malaysia and Indonesia and adolescent masculinities for the Asia Pacific Social Science Review and the Southeast Asian Social Science Review, respectively. He is author of What It Means to Be a Muslimah: The Religious Orientations of Female Muslim Activists in Malaysia (Gerakbudaya, 2022).

Wang Yunqi is a PhD candidate in the Faculty of Social Sciences and Humanities, UMS. He holds a Master of Arts from UMS. His research interests include Malaysian foreign policy, Malaysia-China relations and neoclassical realism theory. He is also interested in regional international organisations study, particularly on the issues of ASEAN and its foreign policy decision-making process.

Wong Hua Siong holds a Master of Laws from the UM. Prior to joining Multimedia University, he was an advocate and solicitor and joined the legal practice upon his admission to the Malaysian Bar in March 2006. Mr. Wong's research interests are in the area of Conveyancing Practice, Business and Commercial Laws (including banking law), Alternative Dispute Resolution (mediation), Law of Insolvency and land law.