

CONTRIBUTORS

Ahmad Farouk Musa is an academic and researcher at Jeffrey Cheah School of Medicine and Health Sciences, Monash University Malaysia. He holds a PhD in Surgery from Monash University, Australia, and a Master of Medicine in Surgery from Universiti Sains Malaysia (USM). He is also a Founder and Director at the Islamic Renaissance Front, Kuala Lumpur, a think tank focusing on Islah (reform) and Tajdid (renewal) in Islam. ORCID ID: 0000-0002-2303-7813

Ahmad Syukran Baharuddin is an associate professor at the Faculty of Shariah and Law, Universiti Sains Islam Malaysia (USIM). He obtained a PhD degree (Jurisprudence of Science and Technology) from Universiti Teknologi Malaysia (UTM) and a Bachelor of Jurisprudence and Usul Fiqh from Mu'tah University, Jordan. His research interests include shariah, Islamic evidence law and halal.

Arba'iyah Mohd Noor is an associate professor at the Department of History, Universiti Malaya (UM). She holds a Bachelor's Degree from the International Islamic University Malaysia (IIUM), a master's degree from the University of Lancaster, United Kingdom and a PhD from UM. She has published a number of books and articles in the fields of historical thought, Malay Sultanate, Malay texts or manuscripts, and women's history.

Arif Saefudin obtained his bachelor's degree in History Education at Muhammadiyah Purwokerto University in 2011, after which he continued his master's programme in the same field at Universitas Sebelas Maret (UNS), Surakarta, Indonesia, graduating in 2013. He continued his doctoral studies at UNS and earned his PhD in Education Science in 2023. His research focuses on various aspects, including history learning, technology-based education, and the education of migrant children. He directly taught migrant children in Sabah for two years at Sekolah Indonesia Kota Kinabalu.

Asmak Ab Rahman is an associate professor at the Department of Shariah and Economics, Academy of Islamic Studies, UM. She earned her bachelor's and master's degrees in shariah and economics, as well as a PhD in Islamic economics from UM. Her research interests include applied shariah, takaful, Islamic banking and Islamic economics. She is also interested in waqf, particularly issues relating to its contemporary application for economic empowerment and human capital development in Malaysia and internationally.

Azlinda Azman is a Professor of Social Work at the School of Social Sciences, USM. She earned her PhD from New York University and a Master of Social Work from Grand Valley State University. Her primary research interest lies in clinical social work practice.

Ekmil Krisnawati Erlen Joni is a senior lecturer at the Faculty of Law, Universiti Teknologi MARA (UiTM). She holds a Bachelor of Law (Hons) degree from the Faculty of Law at the IIUM and completed her master's degree in Comparative Law at the same university. She is currently pursuing her doctoral degree at the Faculty of Law, Universiti Kebangsaan Malaysia (UKM), with a focus on the intersection of medical cannabis and human rights law. Ekmil's research contributions span a wide range of legal disciplines, including criminal law, drug law, Islamic law, negligence law, consumer protection law and education.

Firdausi Suffian is an associate professor at the Faculty of Administrative Science and Policy Studies, UiTM Sabah. A University of Bristol, UK alumnus with a PhD (Political Economy), he also holds a Master's in Public Policy from Australian National University and a bachelor's degree with first-class honours in Administrative Science from UiTM. He enriches minds globally as a visiting lecturer at Mondragon University, Spain. Firdausi's scholarly interests span the political economy of economic development, industrial policy, federal-state relations and the dynamics of uneven development.

Intan Nooraini Haji Zainol is a member of the academic staff in the Social Work Section within the School of Social Sciences at USM. She holds a PhD and a Master's degree in Social Work from USM. Her primary research focus lies in the field of juvenile delinquency, specifically exploring the prospects of desistance and reintegration into the community. Additionally, she is interested in child welfare.

Jumintono is a lecturer at the Faculty of Technical and Vocational Education, Universiti Tun Hussein Onn Malaysia (UTHM) and Vocational Education Study Programme, Graduate School, Universitas Sarjanawiyata Tamansiswa, Yogyakarta, Indonesia. He holds a PhD from Universitas Negeri Yogyakarta and a Master of Education (MEd) from UNS, Surakarta, Indonesia. His research interests include vocational education, social science, and learning and teaching methodologies. He is also interested in technical education, particularly building and civil engineering.

Khairudin Shaary is an education service officer who has served 11 years in the Malaysian Ministry of Education. He holds a Bachelor's degree in Islamic Studies (Sharia) Islamic Law, Diploma in Judicial Administration and Islamic Law from UKM and Diploma in Education (Excellent) from Institut Pendidikan Guru (IPG) Penang Campus. He also completed his Master of Arts (MA) in the field of halal studies at the School of Humanities, USM. His research interest is in the field of halal studies, and he successfully published a book titled Halal Thayyiban: Rukhsah Practices in Food.

Khoo Suet Leng is an associate professor in the Development Planning and Management Section, School of Social Sciences, USM. She holds a PhD (Development Studies) from the University of Melbourne, and a Master of Science (Urban and Regional Planning) and BA (Geography)(Hons) from USM. Her research interests include creative cities, creative industries/creative economy, urban heritage conservation and culture-led urban regeneration. She is also a professional and registered town planner with the Malaysian Board of Town Planners and the Malaysian Institute of Planners.

Madihatun Zainuddin is a lecturer in the Centre of Islamic, General and Language Studies, University Poly-Tech Malaysia. She teaches the subject of Contemporary Islamic Studies for bachelor degree students and is also a supervisor for Master and PhD students in the field of qualitative projects. She holds a PhD from UM. Her research interests include Islamic studies, Islamic governance, Islamic leadership and halal management. She is also interested in Islamic leadership and work ethics in management.

Mageeswaran Sandaram is a postgraduate student at the Department of Indian Studies, Faculty of Arts and Social Sciences, UM. He is a teacher specialising in teaching Tamil. He holds a MA from UM. His research interests include language and literature, and diaspora literature. He is also interested in the history of Tamil education in the pre-Independent Malaysia, particularly on the issues related to curriculum developments.

Mohamad Muzammil Mohamad Noor is a senior lecturer at the School of Distance Education, USM. He obtained his PhD in History of Thought from UM. His thesis was published by Dewan Bahasa dan Pustaka in 2015 under the title Pemikiran Politik Islam: Perbandingan antara Pemikiran Dr. Burhanuddin al-Helmi dengan Muhammad Natsir. His research interests include the history of political thought, Malaysian and Indonesian history as well as comparative history. He is also interested in the study of people with disabilities and the homeless.

Mohammad Amir Wan Harun is a lecturer at the Islamic Studies Section, School of Humanities, USM. He holds a PhD in halal studies from the Faculty of Islamic Civilization, UTM. His research interests including the concept of halal tayyiban, fiqh halal and halal food and industry. In addition, he also ventured into research on Islamic finance, Islamic family law and usul fiqh.

Mohana Dass Ramasamy is a lecturer in the Department of Indian Studies, Faculty of Arts and Social Sciences, UM. He holds a PhD from the University of Newcastle Upon Tyne, United Kingdom, and a MA from UM. His research interests include Phonology, comparative grammar, education and translation studies. He is also interested in the diaspora literature and educational development in pre-independent Malaysia, particularly on issues of Tamil education.

Mohd Firdaus Abdullah is a senior lecturer at the Research Centre for History, Politics and International Affairs, Faculty of Social Sciences and Humanities, UKM. He holds a PhD from UM. His research interests include water imperialism, water development and water politics. He is also interested in women's history, visual art history and maritime affairs.

Mohd Shahrul Azha Mohd Sharif is a history teacher at Sekolah Menengah Sains Muzaffar Syah, Melaka. He graduated with a PhD from UM. His research interests include Malay history, historiography, history of thought, Malay texts and manuscripts.

Nazli Aziz is an associate professor in policy studies, Faculty of Business, Economics and Social Development, Universiti Malaysia Terengganu (UMT). He holds a PhD from the University of Auckland and a MA from Leiden University. His research interests include parliament affairs as well as coastal and ocean governance particularly marine spatial planning.

Ngu Ik Ying is a lecturer in internet studies, Department of Media and Communication, Curtin University, Malaysia campus. She holds a PhD from Curtin University Australia and a Master of Communication from USM. Her research interests include activism, media literacy and communicative ecology studies. She is also interested in media consumption and digital literacy, particularly in Borneo.

Normahfuzah Ahmad is a senior lecturer at the School of Multimedia Technology and Communication, Universiti Utara Malaysia (UUM). She holds a PhD from the University of Glasgow and a MA from the University of Leeds. She is interested in discourses within journalism and media studies from journalistic development, news values, news framing and media narratives.

Nur Afifah Vanitha Abdullah serves as a senior lecturer in the Department of Malay Language, Literature and Culture, Faculty of Social Sciences and Humanities, UKM. Her field of expertise and research interest covers subjects in the area of drama and theatre, film criticism and culture.

Paul GnanaSelvam Pakirnathan is a senior lecturer at the Academy of Language Studies, UiTM Seri Iskandar Campus, Perak, Malaysia. He holds a PhD in Teaching of English as a Second Language (TESL) from Universiti Pendidikan Sultan Idris. His research interests include instructional communication, teaching and learning of L2 writing, issues in higher education and diaspora studies. He is also a published author in creative writing (fiction and poem) whose work often focuses on the experiences, issues and identity conflicts of those in the Indian diaspora. His latest collection of short stories, The Elephant Trophy and Other Stories, was published by Penguin-Random House SEA in 2021.

Pg Siti Rozaidah Pg Hj Idris is an assistant professor at Universiti Brunei Darussalam and holds a PhD from Lancaster University. Her interest is leading research on halal industry and youth employment. She specialises in halal studies, Islamic leadership and HR development; and has expertise in public sector leadership and cultural studies. She works on SDG and Islamic management topics.

Raihanah Azahari is an independent researcher. Previously, she was an associate professor at the Department of Fiqh and Usul, Academy of Islamic Studies, UM. She awarded a Bachelor of Shariah and a Master of Shariah from the University of Jordan in 1994. She graduated with a PhD from UM in 2005. Her specialisations are Islamic family law, Islamic inheritance law, and contemporary Islamic law. She specialises in dispute resolution within the Islamic faith. Since 2010, Tabung Haji has appointed her as hajj advisor.

Rejokirono is a lecturer at the Education Management Study Programme, Directorate of Postgraduate Education, Sarjanawiyata Tamansiswa University, Yogyakarta, Indonesia. He earned his Master of Education Management in 2008 and PhD in Education Management in 2018 at Yogyakarta State University. He is interested in studying vocational education and the education of children with special needs. He has experience working as a teacher in special schools in various places until 2015.

Rohaida Nordin is an associate professor at the Faculty of Law, UKM. She was conferred a PhD in Law by Lancaster University and obtained a Master in Laws from UKM. Rohaida specialises in international human rights law, teaching and advocating human rights, international law and indigenous issues. Her current project is “Developing a Regional Mechanism for Refugees and Asylum Seekers within ASEAN”.

Rosyidah Muhamad is an associate professor in policy studies, Faculty of Business, Economics and Social Development, UMT. She holds a PhD from LaTrobe University, Australia and MA International Studies from University of Leeds. Her research interests include media and politics, women and politics, political representation and political participation.

S. Maartandan Suppiah is a senior lecturer at the School of Multimedia, Technology and Communication, UUM. He received his Bachelor degree in Communication and a Master of Science in Managerial Communication from UUM. He obtained his PhD in Communication from UUM in 2019. His primary research interests are communication for social change, leadership communication, Indian culture and political communication.

Shahrul Mizan Ismail currently works as an associate professor at the Faculty of Law, UKM. He holds a PhD from UKM and a Master of Laws Degree, LL.M (Human Rights Law), from the University of Nottingham. He does research in human rights law, civil litigation and professional practice, public international law, legal education, legal method and legal skills. His current project is “Human rights and South East Asia” and “Gamification and game based learning in legal education”.

Sharifah Hayaati Syed Ismail is a professor at the Department of Siasah Syar’iyyah (Islamic Political Science), Academy of Islamic Studies, UM. She holds a Degree in Sharia, Masters in Comparative Laws and a PhD in Policy Studies from Bristol University. Her primary research interests include Islamic governance, non-governmental organisations, halal governance, integrity, and women’s leadership. She was appointed Honorary Professor of Infrastructure University Malaysia from 2022 to 2023 and, an Adjunct Associate Professor at the Islamic University Sultan Sharif Ali, Brunei Darussalam in 2023.

Sharifah Raihan Syed Jaafar is a senior lecturer in the Linguistics Programme, Faculty of Social Sciences and Humanities, UKM. She graduated from the UKM in linguistics, both for her BA and MA. She obtained her PhD from Lancaster University under Professor Francis X. Katamba. Her research interests include comparative grammar, language and linguistics.

Suhaimi Abdul Rahim received his Masters of Arts Management in Performing Arts in 2018 from the Department of Malay Language, Literature and Culture, Faculty of Social Sciences and Humanities, UKM. He served at the Ministry of Tourism Arts and Culture, Malaysia till 2024, and is now serving the Ministry of Tourism Arts and Culture Malaysia as Principal Assistant Secretary Event Management Division.

Syh Noorul Madihah Syed Husin is a senior lecturer at the Department of Shariah, Faculty of Islamic Contemporary Studies, Universiti Sultan Zainal Abidin, Terengganu. She obtained a Bachelor's degree in Shariah from Al-Azhar University. Then she earned a Master's and a PhD in Shariah from UM. Her main research interests are Islamic family law and Fiqh al-Mar'ah. She is also interested in Islamic jurisprudence in the Shafie Mazhab.

Taufik Mohammad is a postdoctoral fellow in the Department of Education and Psychology at Universidade de Trás-os-Montes e Alto Douro in Vila Real, Portugal. He earned his PhD and Master's degrees in Social Work from USM. His specialisations include juvenile offenders and justice, victims of crime, and restorative justice. Additionally, he has developed an interest in sexual development among adolescents.

Ummu Atiyah Ahmad Zakuan is an associate professor in the School of International Studies, UUM. She holds a PhD from IIUM in Political Science and a Master of Law from the University of Hull. Presently serving as the Director at the Mahathir Mohamad Institute of Thought, her research endeavours delve into multifaceted realms such as women in politics, leadership, human rights, youth empowerment, gender dynamics, and security issues.

Zulfati Izazi Zulkifli is an independent researcher based in Pulau Pinang, Malaysia. She holds a PhD in Linguistics and MA in Language Studies from USM. Her research interest extends to the area of sociolinguistics and discourse studies.